

austin360

Check out the latest lifelike cake from 'Texas Cake House' before it flies away

Addie Broyles

Updated July 28, 2017 Filed in Loving Austin, Media.

The cake artists who run Sideserf Cakes and star in the Food Network show "Texas Cake House" have made cakes that looks like a bleeding heart, a chimp, LeBron James and the human-eating plant from Little Shop of Horrors.

But earlier this year while filming for the show, Natalie and Dave Sideserf made a cake for the Umlauf Sculpture Garden that will make you look twice.

This blue heron cake will be featured on Saturday's episode of "Texas Cake House." Contributed by

Inspired by a blue heron that occasionally visited the sculpture garden off Barton Springs Road, the cake artists made a life-sized heron with realistic feathers and two legs sturdy enough to hold up the edible bird.

It's a sugar sculpture in a sculpture garden and an impressive one at that. You can catch the whole episode with the blue heron cake — “Fly Me to the Moon” is the name of the episode if you want to record or search for it — this Saturday at noon on the Food Network.

ICYMI last week, the Sideserfs made this two-headed dog cake for Roky Erickson's 70th birthday.

RELATED: New generation of cake artists push the limits of edible art

Making magical cakes without much wizardry

Below, you'll find a few photos of the Sideserf's amazing cakes.

Photos from SideserfCakes.com

Navigation bar with social media icons (Facebook, Twitter, Pinterest, Snapchat, Instagram, YouTube), links for Blog, Magazine, Newsletters, Sweeps, a red LOG IN button, and a Recipe Box dropdown. Below this is a search bar with the text "Find Recipes, Videos, & More" and a red SEARCH button. The main navigation menu includes "Shows Chefs Recipes Restaurants Videos".

Home / Shows / Texas Cake House / Texas Cake House Episodes / 200

Season 2, Episode 6

Fly Me to the Moon

The famous Moontower Comedy Festival is amongst Austin's most beloved local events, and the Sideserfs are excited to make a funny cake featuring a sloth. To get it done in time, Natalie asks Dave to try his hand at sculpting for the first time. Then, they receive another sweet order from a much different client: a local sculpture garden requests a life-sized replica of one of their garden's most beautiful visitors for their gala.